

Don't tell me, its not worth fighting for.

I can tell you, there's nothing I want more.

Now look into my eyes and you will see.

Always, what you'll mean to me.

Please tell me again about the time it began.

Realize, I'm trying and want to understand.

Only you know the truth you feel.

Visions get blurry. Some go blind.

Everything continues to change.

Not often are two people the same.

Sunny days may see rain.

Often we lose sight of our fate

No matter if it takes forever. I will wait.

*A memory of before and nothing still made sense except for today's thoughts.
Tomorrow never ends
because today's troubles
are no different from tomorrow's dreams.
Today you thought about what tomorrow could offer,
but you thought a little too hard.
So tomorrow didn't have much to give.
Perhaps the next day you'll think a little less
and your ambitions can survive,
but when your ambitions begin to fade,
and your thoughts become fears,
your realities will start to weigh your dreams
that begin to drop from your tears.*

